The INTELLIGENCER believes that i voices the sentiment of every West Virginian when it agrees with the Register that "Mr. Wilson will see that his work is in West Virginia." West Virginia has a great future before her and we do not want to see any of her citizens go West. They should stay at home and share in the general prosperity of the future. West Virginians want Mr. Wilson to see that "his work is done in the State" and they will take careithis year that he is not permitted to perform it in Washington, where he has not been giving natisfaction.

The result of every election held in Mr. Wilson's district since he has been in Congress proves that the people would much prefer that he resume his work in West Virginia, and that some other man, one who is more in accord with the tariff policy under which the State is prospering, shall do the work in Wash-

Tin Ore in America.

Europe are made from tin mines in Virginia. Now comes the St. Louis Store and Hardware Reporter with a description of a rich vein of tin which has been discovered in Georgia, within forty miles of Atlanta. The existence of tin in that neighborhood has been suspected for some time, and the prospectors have cut some time, and the prospectors have cut away rock enough to expose a vein of ore forty feet wide and ten feet deep.

One of the favorite arguments of our Free Trade friends (until recently) against the polley of increasing the duty on tin plate, was that in this country tin ore does not exist in paying quantities. We have recently published articles Second, but I can't remember the name describing the great tin deposits of Dakota and Montana, and have shown that shipments of very superior ores to
